You big baby!

Adopted foal brings joy to new family

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

Bonnie and Randy Olson of Romulus are proud to announce the arrival of their 250-pound baby girl.

Annie "Spanish Britches," an 8-week-old filly, arrived at the Olson residence July 1, a harbinger of great sadness and even greater joy.

"One of my boarders heard about a mare and foal who were being badly mistreated in Fenton and we decided to go get them," said Bonnie Olson, co-owner of BoRan Farms. "She bought the mare and I bought the foal and we brought them home. Unfortunately, the mare had been so badly neglected, she was beyond saving."

She had contracted colitis from bad drinking water and could not be cured. One day after their arrival, the filly was in a new environment without her mother.

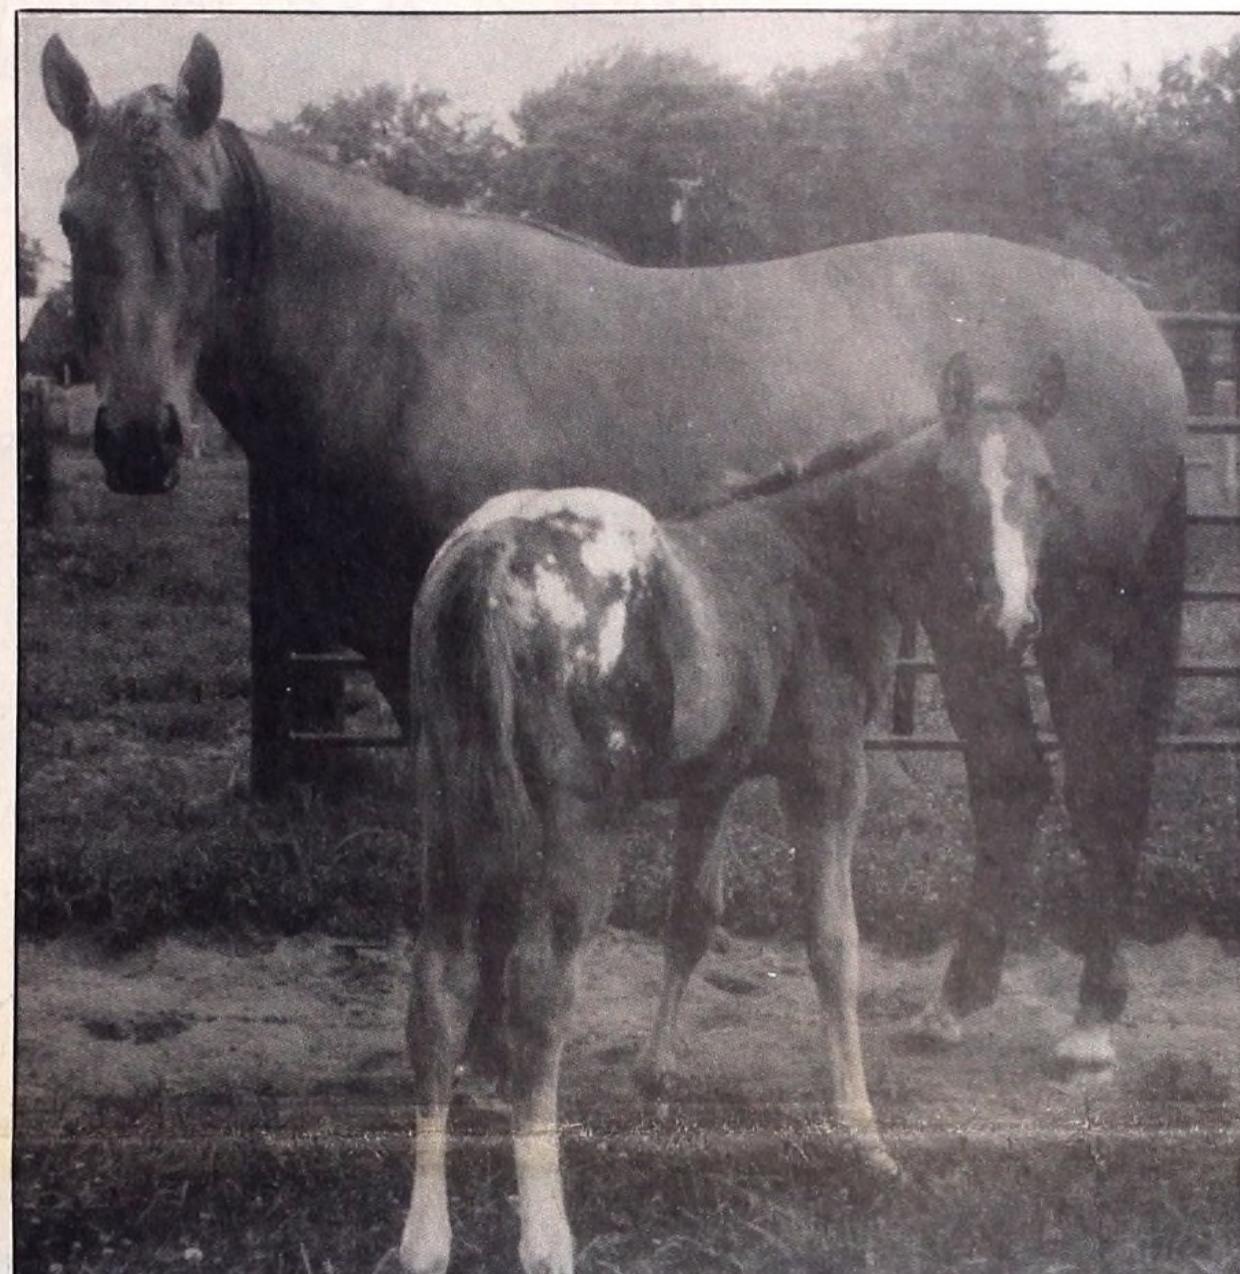

"I had no doubt that we would take care of her and raise her the best we could, but we were extremely worried as to whether or not she could physically and emotionally adjust to live through the experience," said Olson.

For two days, the foal refused to eat and Bonnie and Randy Olson forced milk down her throat via a syringe. She then took to a bottle, and began to nurse.

"We could tell she was beginning to adjust, but we also realized that she needed more than human compassion and companionship, so we introduced her to our 4-year-old mare, Sassy."

Fortunately, they took to each other immediately.

"Sassy even let her suckle for milk although she has none," Olson said. "She then began teaching the baby when and how to eat hay and grain and now they're almost inseparable."

The Olsons' named the horse "Annie" because they brought her home on their 13th anniversary. She is a registered Appaloosa, sorrel in color with a white blanket and two white socks.

They continue to feed her a quart and a half of milk from a bottle every six hours, and grain with calcium supplements about three times a day. She then grazes with Sassy on part of the 10-acre Olson land.

"She has two mothers now—me and Sassy—and I don't think she could have made it through without both of us," said Olson.

With one giving nutrition and love, the other companionship and care, and both teaching her the lessons she needs to grow up healthy and strong, Annie seems to love and appreciate both "moms," and seems well-adjusted to her new situation.

Annie, an 8-week old foal, became the newest member of the Olson family July 1 after her "first" mother died unexpectedly. ANP photos by Amanda Wilson earlier storm.

"I went into the hotel to investigate and was immediately reminded of the movie The Towering Inferno, though the only things on fire were the tempers of the hotel management and their guests," Gear said.

Vicky Slaughter, coordinator of the family reunion approached Gear, explaining to him that the family had been without air conditioning and lights, and that they had not been able to sleep due to their frustration, discomfort and excitement about the event.

Gear approached the hotel management only to find that there was nothing that could possibly be done until power was restored.

"Still, the fact remained that the family was hot and tired, and, because nothing was being done, they just wanted to go home," Gear said.

Sympathizing with their plight, and realizing a long journey after going without sleep for two nights could be a life-threatening situation, Gear acted immediately.

"I immediately called Steve Boggia, manager of the Holiday Inn in Romulus, and he reserved a block of 70 rooms that would accommodate the 130 people," Gear said. "Thanks to the hotel staff, arrangements were also made to give a discount rate to those here for the family reunion."

"We were more than happy to help," Boggia said.

The family had a peaceful sleep that night, according to Gear. In fact, although they had planned to attend church services in the morning, they ended up sleeping right through.

Before leaving, the family thanked Gear for taking the time to care.

Local councilman rescues weary travelers

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

Randy Gear, mayor pro tem of Romulus, certainly did a good deed recently and at least 130 people are grateful for his help.

On his way home from two wedding receptions July 6, Gear noticed several vans outside of the Holiday Inn in Detroit.

"As I drew closer, I noticed quite a few people sitting out front, many of them senior citizens, women with infants and small children," he said.

Gear stopped to talk with some of the people and soon discovered that the group had come here from Arkansas for the Watkins/Waters family reunion. They had been in town only a short time, but had been without power or lights for two days due to a power outage suffered by the hotel, a result of an

Council balks at new stadium tax

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

Members of the Romulus City Council vowed Monday to do everything possible to stop Wayne County from taxing Romulus hotels and motels to fund a Detroit stadium.

The State Convention Facility Development Act, known as the Cobo Hall Tax, set the guidelines for imposition, but a second piece of legislation gives Wayne County the authorization to decide whether or not to put the tax into effect, according to Michael Wright, executive vice president and general manager of the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Councilmembers plan to do all they can to urge county officials to say no.

"The county may have the authority to impose the tax, but there's nothing saying that we can't fight to stop it," said Councilman Russell Lambert.

"We are the people and we do have a say in things that go on in our country. Maybe if we work together, we can stop this tax from affecting our city."

According to the development act, the tax is imposed on individuals engaged in the business of providing rooms for dwelling, lodging or sleeping purposes of transient guests.

"The proposed tax would give Wayne County hotels a 12-to 17-percent total tax burden, and at this time our hotels are operating at only about 50 percent of their capacity," said Councilman William Wadsworth Jr. "Our hotels simply can't afford it right now."

"We're not opposed to the city building a new Tiger Stadium, what we are opposed to is any type of tax increase on our hotel, said Julie Merritt, director of operations for the Romulus Econo Lodge and Comfort Inn Hotels.

The argument for the tax is the business for hotels which sporting events would generate. As they would be beneficiaries, they should have to pay for part of the initial building, claim proponents of the plan. Merritt and many others disagree.

"If this tax is imposed, Romulus will become the second highest taxed hotel industry in the country, exceeded only by New York," Merritt said. "We're having trouble bringing people in with our current taxes and I'm afraid that any additional tax would deter most business altogether."

"The majority of people who attend the games are local people who do not need overnight accommodations," said Councilman Jimmie Raspberry.

"It's simply an unfair tax to impose on our hotels," he said.

"When Romulus wants to build something new, we don't tax the businesses in Detroit to get our money, so why should Detroit be allowed to tax our businesses?" asked Councilman Ellis Pennington. "As far as I'm concerned, this would be taxation without representation, and it's simply not right."

The councilmembers intend to submit a letter to all officials concerned with making a decision on this tax.

"I'm happy to see that our councilmembers are backing us up on this," Merritt said. "We could use all the help and support we can get to keep this additional tax burden off the already over taxed hotels and motels of Romulus."

5 women campaign for city offices

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

For the first time in the history of Romulus, five women will be vying for city council terms of office.

Their only opposition will be the seven incumbent councilmembers.

"The council needs a woman's point of view," said Doreen Siebert, one of the five candidates.

"I'm surprised to see so many lady candidates, but it shows that someone else out there besides me thinks that the council needs a little mix," said Mary Collins, another candidate.

The ballot this year will include only candidates for city council. The election is scheduled for Nov. 5.

Campaigning for the seven available posts on city council are:

• Mary Ann Banks - Banks served as mayor pro tem for Romulus from 1977 to 1989. She now works as a secretary in special education for the Romulus Community Schools.

A lifetime resident of Romulus, Banks intends to listen to the best overall interests of the citizens, and intends to do her part to make Romulus a better place to live and work.

If elected, she intends to encourage housing development and to work on getting roads fixed throughout the city. She is happy with the way the schools are now being run and believes

Romulus schools are "one of the finest."

• Pauline Calhoun - Calhoun has lived in Romulus all her life and considers herself an active and concerned member of the community.

If elected, Calhoun intends to listen to the residents and taxpayer and to address their issues and concerns.

Chamber hears travel tips

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Staff Writer

Business or leisure travel can be very expensive, especially for those who don't know how to take a "champagne trip on a beer budget."

Kate Rosevear, owner of Suncoast Travel which is situated in Plymouth and Wayne, presented the Wayne Chamber of Commerce members a few tricks of the travel trade last week.

"Travel agencies have changed over the years," Rosevear said. "Whether leisure or business travel, you're going to pay for the same ticket whether you go to the airport to purchase the ticket or call a travel agent.

"The advantage of going through a travel agent is that we can access all the airlines on our computers, and in a matter of minutes, we can find fares you would never know about if you didn't call a travel agent."

Rosevear was a real estate broker for 15 years. Since 1981, she represented developers in the south and found herself looking for condo accommodations in different sunbelt locations for clients of the developers.

She soon realized there wasn't a travel agency out there filling that particular need. This inspired her to enter the travel agency business in 1985.

"My suggestion is to establish a working relationship with one travel agent," Rosevear said. "This way he or she will get to know your likes and dislikes."

Rosevear also suggested individuals offer helpful tips to the travel agent as to where they want to go. For example, don't just tell the agent anywhere warm is fine.

Youngsters enjoy wild reading program

There's something wild going on in area libraries this summer.

Youngsters are taking the theme of the summer reading program, "Read on the Wild Side," seriously, and checking out scores of books on wildlife, nature and a variety of topics.

At the Romulus Public Library, dinosaurs are the most popular reading topic.

"The interest in dinosaurs was prompted by the huge paper mache dinosaur here," said Romulus librarian Diane Hazen. "Originally, the dinosaur was at Barth Elementary School. Two second-grade classes worked for eight months to create the Barthsaurus for their school, and it now has a temporary summer home here in the library."

The Romulus Summer Reading Club program, which extends through mid-August, has featured special programs by an Oakwoods Metropark naturalist, a dog trainer, animal control officer and, of course, a speaker on dinousars.

Young readers also are busy checking out books at the Fred C. Fischer Library in Belleville.

"Most popular choices seem to be the Baby Sitter's Club books, Sweet Valley Twins and the Waldo books," said Mary Jo Suchy, youth services librarian. "The old favorites like the Curious George books and Charlie and the Chocolate Factory also are popular this summer."

The library, which serves Belleville, Sumpter Township and Van Buren Township, closes its summer reading program at the end of July.

Race

She believes the school milage is too high and intends to do something about it.

"I plan to really listen to the residents and taxpayers and address their needs to the best of my ability," Calhoun said.

Mary Collins - Collins was secretary for the Romulus City Council for six years. She is currently working in the financial department for the city of Wayne.

Collins believes that the local government needs to be more accountable to the taxpayers. She believes there are a number of things tax dollars are being used for that are not necessary and intends to swing focus more toward the residents than the business owners.

She said her knowledge gained from direct experience with the council and her active involvement in her community will give her the edge needed to be a great council member.

"I once heard a politician say, 'If you don't like it, change it,' and that's what I intend to do," Collins said.

She has resided in Romulus all her life.

Judith Frederick - Frederick has resided in Romulus for 27 years and considers herself a very active member of the community.

A frequent audience member at council meetings, Frederick believes the city has managed tax money well and is pleased about the services Romulus has to offer.

If elected, she plans to do all she can to stop airport officials from taking any more of Romulus taxable land.

She is currently a cook for North Junior High School, and coordinator of quilting activities for Romulus residents.

Doreen Siebert - Siebert is a Romulus Head Start School bus driver and has resided in the area for seven years.

If elected, she intends to go along with the needs and concerns of the people of Romulus, to work on generating business and more school money for the city.

She intends to see what can be done about getting roads worked on throughout the city.

Siebert believes the council needs new ideas and a change of pace and believes her woman's point of view would be a plus to the council.

All current council members are running for re-election. They include:

Noah Bergeron - Bergeron has served six terms as a city council member and is looking forward to finishing the plans the council has begun during the past year.

If re-elected, he intends to work on continued growth in Romulus.

Bergeron is a financial planner and has resided in Romulus all his life.

Fred (Junior) Block - Block has been a council member for about 20 years. He is self-employed in the business of buying and selling farm machinery.

Block looks at the council as "seven people working together as a team," and hopes to stay one of those seven.

"A lot of people on the council do a lot of talking. I do a lot of listening," Block said. "And I intend to continue listening to the needs of my community, and to do all I can to help."

Randolph Gear - Gear is completing his second term on the council and looks forward to many more to come.

He would like to continue working for the needs of citizens of Romulus, and intends to push for city residential growth. He would like to see new multiple and single family dwellings and another senior citizen building. He also intends to see what he can do to establish housing for moderate to low income single parents.

Russell Lambert - Lambert has resided in Romulus on and off for about 40 years. He is resigned from the Romulus Volunteer Fire Department and is currently employed as a foreman for a carpentry firm.

If re-elected for a second term, Lambert plans to continue growth at Metro Airport and to push for new businesses and jobs.

Lambert is very concerned with environmental issues and intends to promote recycling and intends to do all he can to put the dollar burden of cleaning up the environment on the industry instead of the taxpayers.

Ellis Pennington - Pennington served on the first city council from 1970 to 1973, and returned to the council in 1985. He also served eight years on the Romulus Township Board of Directors.

If re-elected, the candidate plans to work to answer citizen complaints.

Mayor Beverly McAnally will run unopposed this year, as will City Clerk Linda Choate and City Treasurer James Napiorkowski.

Jimmie Raspberry - Raspberry became a councilmember in 1970 and previously served as a trustee for Romulus Township. Facing a campaign loss in 1973, he resumed office from 1975 to 1985, and again in 1987, after recovering from the death of his wife.

Raspberry looks forward to another term on the council and intends to continue to serve the needs of the people and to help promote the progress of the city.

"I plan to encourage residents that now live in the city to stay, and to welcome the new by keeping Romulus a safe and promising place to live," Raspberry said.

William Wadsworth Jr. - Wadsworth has been a councilmember since 1983.

He is an officer for the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and it is his goal to continue to serve the needs of the citizens through his seat on the council.

He plans to see that citizens continue to receive the best police, fire and recreation services available and to promote industrial and airport development.

Mayor Beverly McAnally will run unopposed this year, as will City Clerk Linda Choate and City Treasurer James Napiorkowski.

Cadet program gives police a first-hand look

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

When most people think of police, images of Eddie Murphy's Beverly Hills Cop and Clint Eastwood's Dirty Harry come to mind.

It's a profession looked at as a tough, rugged, exciting way of life full of action and surprise.

That's the image, but it may not be the reality. Unfortunately, many young men and women find out only after joining the police force that the job isn't really all glamour and prestige and it may not be the life for them.

For Romulus police officers, however, this may not be the case. The department cadet program offers young people a chance to experience police life first-hand, allowing future patrolmen every opportunity to "make or break" their career choice.

"It gives young men and women a chance to see how they react and function in a police environment so they can be sure it's really what they want to do," said Romulus Police Lt. Eric Painter, coordinator of the program.

The program is open to anyone age 18 to 23 who has a high school degree and a desire to be in law enforcement. Candidates must then meet written, psychological and physical ability requirements.

"The cadet then becomes a member of the police department, completes a two- to three-week orientation, and begins work," Painter said.

The job includes a variety of duties such as booking prisoners, assisting in dispatch, taking general reports, vehicle maintenance and computer entry.

Cadets work under the supervision and direction of a police officer, and usually have an opportunity to work in the records bureau, in the uniform patrol division and in any other department where assistance might be needed.

"The recruits get a chance to work in a variety of departments doing a variety of jobs so they can get an idea of how everything works," Painter said.

In addition to the job, cadets must also take college courses in criminal justice, obtaining a degree within a 60-month period. The courses are fully paid through the program, as is their salary for the 40-hour job.

Cadet Dave Berry

"The cadet must attend school above and beyond their full-time job schedule, but we pay for the schooling in addition to giving them a salary of $15,500 a year for their work," Painter said. "If they're serious about becoming a cop, there's nothing like the benefit of this program."

There's nothing like the benefit of the program for the department either, according to Painter.

"Having the cadets there to do smaller tasks frees up the police to work on other projects," he said. "It also gives us a chance to be sure that they're going to be good workers, ready to do anything they're told at anytime."

Upon receipt of their degree, and once becoming 21 years of age, the cadet must meet the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers Training Council requirements and be approved by an oral board. The recruit then goes on to the Police Academy for 14 weeks of training which is funded by the department.

"The officer is then obligated to work for the Romulus Police Department for a period of two years," Painter said.

"It's a great program for anyone who wants to get a foot in the door to law enforcement," said Police Officer Lowell Smith, a former cadet.

The Romulus Police Department may employ up to five cadets at a time and there may be openings this fall, according to Painter. Applications for the program are available at the Personnel Department in the Romulus City Hall.

3 residents visit with governor

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

Three Romulus residents recently took their city concerns to Gov. John Engler, and were pleased with the results.

Doreen Siebert, 35, Judith Frederick, 45, and Ruth Skupny, 68, represented different generations of city residents and the major concerns of each during a visit with the governor recently.

"We heard the governor wanted to hear concerns directly from the citizens, so we wrote him a letter and were invited to come and see him right away," said Frederick.

Frederick brought with her concerns about expansion of the Detroit Metropolitan Airport.

"I have heard concern from many citizens of Romulus in regards to airport expansion and the loss of more taxable land and I wanted to be sure the worries were known by higher officials," Frederick said.

Because the airport is county-owned property, business owners there are exempt from paying city taxes. Frederick explained to Engler that as the airport buys up more Romulus land for expansion, the city will lose even more of a tax base, and will subsequently have even less money to function.

She said that since the airport is considered to be located within Romulus, it should have to pay taxes like the rest of the residents, and suggested that privatization of the airport be put into effect to solve this problem.

"We allow the airport to reside on our property yet we receive no revenue or perks from the big business they bring in," Frederick said. "If the county sold the airport to a private party, both they and our city would receive revenue, and both would benefit."

Frederick said that the governor was aware of the problem and did share her concerns. He offered her literature on the subject, and agreed when she suggested that the city take a stand to speak out about privatization and the benefits of having a business owner rather than a government agency to run the show.

He suggested that Frederick do what she can to keep the momentum and invited her to keep him aware of the progress.

Siebert, a Head Start School bus driver for Romulus, brought with her a concern about funding for the Head Start Program.

"It's a good program especially for low income families, and it really helps the children to realize how special they are," Siebert said. "I told him it would be a shame to lose such a program."

And, again, the governor agreed.

"Many of the concerns you mentioned during our meeting are issues that my administration is currently reviewing so that we may adequately address these real problems within our state," he later stated.

Skupny shared concerns about senior citizen taxes.

"I told him that a lot of seniors are being pushed out of their houses because they can no longer afford to pay the taxes," Skupny said.

He suggested that taxes be lowered for seniors and was pleased that Engler listened with great concern.

"We felt welcome and very at ease with the governor and we plan to honor his invitation to visit him again soon," Frederick said.

What do you say to the guy who plays hardball, even when he's playing softball?

The Keatons were among the first visitors to see the just completed refurbishment of the Wright Brothers' Home. From left to right: Jeff, Joe Jr., Sandy and Joe.

Many families are fit to be tied looking for an outing that everyone will enjoy. But not the Keatons of Lincoln Park.

Since they got a family membership pass to Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village, there's never an argument about how to have some fun.

Oh, the boys don't always see eye to eye on what's most awesome: "Edison's Lab. The glassblower. Is not. Is, too. Is not ..." But then again, they're not the same height.

Even Mr. and Mrs. Keaton don't always agree: "Suwanee Park. The Wright Brothers' Home. Says who? Says me. Who are you?" But then again, they're married.

However, the Keatons always agree at the end of the day that they had a good time together. If you've come to the end of your rope thinking of something fun for everybody in your family, you should do what the Keatons do — visit Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village and get a family membership pass. Or call (313) 271-1620.

Opinion

Lesser of 2 evils

It may not look like your average middle-class, all-American neighborhood. It may, in fact, be somewhat unattractive and a bit intimidating. But it is, in fact, an effort by the city of Inkster to bring back a level of normalcy and serenity to neighborhoods in their city which have been all but appropriated by those involved in the drug trade.

We refer to the recent approval by members of the Inkster city council of barricades in certain neighborhoods to prevent the unrestricted ingress and egress of other than local residents.

For far too long, Inkster residents have been subjected to the whims and arrogance of those enjoying the trappings of illicit drug transactions. There have been instances of violence, intimidation and threats from individuals making the sales and those looking for a source of controlled substances. Community life has been all but destroyed in some areas where these amoral and anti-social elements have spread a nearly palpable terror across the lawns and streets where children once played and neighbors would visit and exchange pleasantries.

City officials have said "no more" and they have approved the installation of barricades at several crucial intersections in the neighborhoods to stop both the dealers and the customers from accessing the areas they have been using as established headquarters for their transactions.

We applaud the efforts of the Inkster City Council and the police department and offer them our support in this endeavor. Yes, we are well aware that the constitutionality of this action will be questioned. Sure, we know that there are those screaming about the violation of civil liberties and rights of free access.

But this time, and in this city, we endorse the barricades as a means to protect the civil liberties and rights of the homeowners and residents who want nothing more than a good and quiet life. There are many Inkster residents who mourn the loss of the neighborhood spirit and communal attitude which once was present on their blocks. There are those who remember when Inkster was a quiet, respectable town where people went to church on Sunday, spent time with their families and neighbors during the evenings and weekends and truly enjoyed the peace and tranquility of mid-west American life.

The sale and use of drugs and the crime and moral decay that surrounds that activity have robbed Inkster of its reputation and have destroyed a very way of life in some sections of the city.

Are city council members and police being too vigilant with this action? Are they threatening the civil liberties we all hold so dear? Are they impeaching the integrity of the American way of life?

There are those who would say so. And then there are those of us who would say this is the lesser of two evils.

The city of Inkster has a right to protect its reputation, its citizens and its very way of life. We congratulate the officials for the courage this action required and the public concern which it demonstrates.

They have our vote

City and township clerks in the area have our full and complete support in their efforts to eliminate or at the very least, alter, the Presidential Preferential Primary election.

This is an expensive and nearly useless balloting which has degenerated into nothing less than an exercise in futility. The cost to the state is estimated at $5 to $8 million, and in this time of economic stress, those funds could be put to far better use.

Further, the election is open only to those who have declared their party preference at the time of registration to vote. We consider that information private and do not think that anyone should be required to reveal their political party in exchange for the privilege of voting. We think the right to vote is guaranteed in our Constitution and there should be no conditions or circumstances acceptable to any alteration of that inalienable right.

The election is not binding on state delegates who are free, despite the results of the balloting, to vote in any manner they may choose at the state convention, choosing anyone they prefer regardless of the majority of voter opinion.

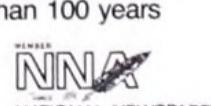

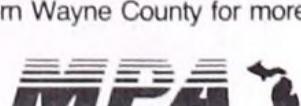

No, we say. Let's eliminate this costly, time-consuming and futile sham and find a more appropriate use for the tax dollars wasted on it.

Ziemba will seek election

To the editor:

As the city of Westland approaches the fall election, the makeup of the city council is destined to change. The future of Westland must be guided by a legislative body that embraces a positive vision for the economic, commercial and residential development of the city. It is time to add an individual to the council with the ability and fore-sight to accomplish this goal.

Therefore, I am announcing my candidacy for the office of councilman, city of Westland. I seek this elective office because I am concerned about the future of Westland and I believe that my presence on the council will benefit the citizens of our city. I believe in the separation of power between the administrative and legislative branches of government and the checks and balances that are provided in the City Charter. I vow to eliminate fiscal waste without a reduction in essential services.

I have the educational and civic background needed to effectively serve the people of Westland. I have served on the council previously, as well as having served on the planning

Educational plan questioned by voter

To the editor:

Will pumping more money into the education system produce results? The New American School proposed by the president will cost big bucks. If memory serves, it is since the "affective education" teaching methods were adopted that the academic achievements began to plummet. Since the child is taught that he makes all of his own decisions, why should he choose to do his homework? Since the elimination of phonics in reading, identifying all of those wiggles on the paper is no fun after he finishes second grade, so why should he read? (Especially since he can watch TV.) And the traditional motivation of obedience, respect for authority, honesty, discipline, etc. have been eliminated, and since his "rights" include parental support (without parental control), schoolwork becomes a drag.

It seems that with the establishment of each new bureaucracy, more and more control is awarded the state, who will mandate the core curriculum, licensing and certification of teachers and teaching methods. If, therefore, all schools must teach the same things in the same way, where is our choice? What difference will it make at which school our kids learn the "valueless" social studies, contemporary living and Planned Parenthood brand of sex education? And if our teaching experts (the NEA's) goals... "to eliminate absolutes wherever they are found" and of "guidance counseling beginning at the pre-kindergarten level and specifically including guidance in sexual orientation" and "courses in diversity of sexual orientation" are to be realized, where is our choice? Will we have the choice to attend schools where teachers do not have to be members of the NEA? We still have a great many wonderful teachers.

The voucher system sounds great, but what the state funds, the state controls. How can we protect our religious schools from being forced to conform to state regulations? Also, we need to be cautious with the state's vocabulary (vs. the Webster definition) using words like "basics", "literacy", "abstinence", "dysfunctional families", "child's rights", and even "education" which is no longer the "pursuit of knowledge or academic skills". The state defines "educate" to mean "to prepare to be flexible and adaptable and able to make rational and varied responses to a situation" ... sounds like "no right and no wrong" ethics to me. Sounds like it's right to lie, cheat, steal or have sex or whatever as long as the child feels that the situation calls for it, or if it feels right for him - no wonder our prisons are full. (The Savings and Loan con men were only doing what was "right for them".)

Will there be schools who don't subscribe to the "affective education" teaching methods? If it is mandated in the core curriculum, to which all schools must subscribe, where will be our choice?

Romulus repeats as District 5 champion, with Melvindale defeat

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus made it a repeat, and some say the Big League baseball champ is a sure bet for a three-peat for the District 5 baseball title in 1992.

Manager Mark Harden's

club sealed the title with an impressive 5-3 victory over Melvindale in the finale of the 1991 regular-season game.

"The kids have played well all season long, and deserve this honor," Harden said. "We had the right chemistry on this team. We're looking forward to next season."

Harden and his coaching staff, Joe Kusibab and Paul Filek, have 12 good reasons to look forward to 1992. Of the 17 players in the 1991 championship lineup, 12 are eligible to compete a year from now.

Romulus won the title a year ago with a 11-4 won-lost record and, even with a near-perfect, 15-1 mark this season, the champs went right down to the wire in order to pull out the championship. Melvindale finished a close second.

"We got some tough and clutch pitching from our staff," said Harden, who pointed to the team ERA of 2.55, "but I believe it was our defense that provided the key to our season."

And a .383 team batting average probably didn't hurt, coach.

Leading the pitching rotation was Brian Ellison, who posted a 5-0 year. In his 26 innings of work, Ellison gave up only 31 hits and fanned 17, finishing with an enviable 1.62 earned run average. Dufure, also undefeated (4-0), pitched 31 innings and finished with a 2.94 ERA.

Mets put it all together

The Mustang Mets will long remember the summer of 1991. They came up with the pitching and the defense to capture the Westland Youth Athletic Association championship, posting an impeccable 15-0 record en route to the perfect season.

Under the guidance of manager Gary Pack, coaches Bob Vickers, Keith DeMolay, Jim Tharp and Dave Fendelet, the Mets proved which team was best in the league this season.

The 13 young players who wore blue throughout the campaign, started the year with a lopsided 23-7 victory in the WYAA Opening Day as Geoff Christensen led the way with a perfect four-for-four performance.

As the regular season began, the Reds fell victim to the combined pitching efforts of Ryan Vickers and Christensen, who recorded a 15-6 triumph.

And the beat went on...

Justin Fendelet singled home two runs as the Mets claimed an 8-5 victory over the Yankees.

John Pettit's two-run single and Brad Teague's two-run double were the keys in the Mets' 8-2 victory over the Athletics.

Coming back from a 5-0 deficit against the Tigers, Jake Tharp sparked the rally with a two-run base hit that put the clincher on a 14-10 victory.

Dave Word fanned four batters en route to a 9-6 victory over the Royals.

Then the Mets destroyed the Reds, 20-3, with Jeff

The baseball season that most teams and coaches dream about became a reality in 1991 for the Westland Mets, who captured the WYAA title with a perfect 15-0 record. Members of the championship team are: Geoff Christensen (front row, from left), Bobby Mendell, Jason Pack, John Pettit, Jeff Winkler, Brad Teague and Ryan Vickers; second row are Coach Bob Vickers, Chuck Leight, Dave Word, Nick Sawyers, Jake Tharp, Justin Fendelet, coach Keith DeMolay and manager Gary Pack. Winkler driving in a pair of runs. The Yankees were the next victims, 21-10, as defense took over with Jason Pack pulling off an unassisted double play and Vickers and Winkler combining for another twin killing.

Playing with only 10 players against the Royals, the Mets defeated them, 11-4, and followed that victory with a 21-7 triumph against the Athletics, as Teague and Fendelet garnered inside-the-park home runs in the victory.

Chuck Leight's double in the fourth inning against the Tigers put away this 11-5 victory and Bobby Mendell's catch of a line drive to right field turned into a double play that saved a 16-7 victory over Royals, a win that gave the young men in blue at least a tie for the championship.

The march toward perfection gained momentum.

First, the Mets claimed a hard-earned 17-11 decision over the Reds as Chad Miler went two-for-three with one RBI and Nick Sawyer drove in a run with a base hit. Then, the Yankees took the champs to the well, leading them 6-3 in the fourth inning before the Mets rose from the ashes and came out ahead 7-6 thanks to Jake Tharp's game-winning hit.

The Mets built a big lead against the Athletics and hung on for an 18-9 victory as Pettit, getting his first start at second base, handled the position flawlessly. He also chipped in with two hits.

The Mets brought the curtains down on a historic season with a come-back-behind 10-6 triumph over the Tigers as Pack went three-for-three with three RBIs, including a two-run double, for the win.

"We would like to take those who helped make this an unforgettable season for us, especially the parents of these kids," said Pack. "This was truly a season few of us will forget."

8 days left to City Golf deadline

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If you are planning to play in the 1991 City Championship Golf Tournament you have eight days remaining to get your entry into the offices of The Associated Newspapers.

There is a 5 p.m. Aug. 2 deadline to register for the 32nd annual tournament which will be staged two days, Aug. 10 and 11 at Fellows Creek Golf Course in Canton Township.

The deadline was established in order for tournament director

Bill Hawley to have ample time to set up the foursomes and tee times for the competition. Hawley said that entries have been arriving at the ANP at a good pace.

The tournament, open to all male and female amateur golfers in the cities of Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Inkster and Canton Township, has broken away from tradition and will have a women's flight for the first time in the tournament's 32-year history.

And Virginia Sexton, a Westland resident, is the first to sign up for the women's flight.

Canton Township appears to be putting together another strong field with two top entries in Ken Ray Eck, a perennial challenger for the medalist honors, and Paul Massimilla, a one-time Canton medalist.

Westland, the city that has supplied the bulk of this tournament, has several notables ready to play including Larry Clark, Danny McMechan, and Keith L. Kaye.

However, the defending city champs - Mark Morton, who was the top golfer in Wayne; Paul Deedler, the defending Canton champ; Stu Martin, the Westland defending champ, and Kevin Ryan, the four-time tournament medalist and Inkster champ have yet to be heard from.

Golfers will be competing for the separate city championships simultaneously for all of the participating communities. Trophies will be awarded to the first, second and third place finishers in each of the flights. However, additional flight competitions will be staged for each city if the total number of entries from the city warrants it.

The medalist, low scorer for the entire field, will be presented the championship trophy.

Also, the medalist of the Wayne Championship Flight will be awarded the Patrolman Leonard Anderson Memorial Trophy. That trophy is offered by the Wayne Police Officers Association in memory of Patrolman Anderson, the first officer slain in the line of duty in Wayne.

To enter, golfers should fill out the entry blank accompanying this story. Mail it, along with a $45 registration fee, to the Associated Newspapers, Sports Desk, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, MI 48184.

Please make checks payable to Bill Hawley, tournament manager.

Those who need further information should contact ANP staff writer Tom Mooradian at 729-4000 during regular business hours, Monday through Friday.

Belleville retains softball crown

The Belleville Dodgers did it again.

For the second consecutive season, the Dodgers dominated the Major League Softball Division, retaining the title they won a year ago.

Manager Gary Pietrowski and coach Bob Harple again managed to put an undefeated team in the field this season, repeating a feat the team first accomplished in 1990. The Dodgers posted a perfect 13-0 record a year ago and have now stretched that victory string to 28-0 over the two-year period.

Sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club, the Dodgers may just have a dynasty going for them.

Pietrowski credits the success of the team to a team and players who were willing to learn the basics of the game. They always came to the games ready to play ball, he said.

"This year we picked up five players in the draft, and they fit into the scheme of things," added Pietrowski, who said he and coach Harple would also like to thank the parents for their active participation.

Clerks move to eliminate primary

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Most city and township clerks in the area believe that the Presidential Preferential Primary should be scrapped.

Scheduled to be conducted in March 1992, the primary would trigger "confusion, frustration and anger," according to Romulus City Clerk Linda Choate.

"In its present form, the Presidential Preferential Primary is confusing to a majority of our voters, who have expressed concerns about the constitutionality of the process."

"Many have indicated to me that the state has no right forcing them to declare their party preference," Choate said.

"In fact, they believe it is a violation of their rights."

Under election laws (Public Act 275) approved by the state legislature, voters must declare party affiliation before they can become eligible to cast their ballot in the presidential primary.

Choate said that she has received negative reaction from the voters about the process. In fact, few know that they will have to make their party affiliation known before they may vote in the presidential primary.

"Little has been said about this by the media, and next year when the voters show up to vote and we tell them they can't, guess who will receive the brunt of the anger and frustration – the clerks," Choate predicted.

Choate stressed that some of the voters have expressed to her that the requirement to declare a voter's party affiliation is unconstitutional.

"They're telling us the state has no right to ask us what party they belong to. That it's none of their business," Choate added.

The preferential primary is scheduled to be conducted in Michigan on March 17, 1992.

The impetus behind Public Act 275 is the controversy that an open primary – a system where voters may crossover and select candidates of either party – opens the doors to select the weakest candidate of the opposition party.

Compounding the problem is that in the 1992 primary, there will be only three choices for the voters: Democrat, Republican and Independent. The latter designation could be misleading, Choate contends.

"Usually one looks at an independent voter as one who votes for a particular candidate and not one who votes along party line," Choate added. "And when the voters discover their vote isn't going to count, can you see the voter frustration, the problems we are going to have with this thing?"

Most area clerks agree with Choate. The primary will open the "Pandora's box," they say. It will not enhance the selection of a presidential candidate.

The primary is non-binding. The delegates go to the state convention and choose the candidate of their choice anyway.

Costs are another factor, according to the area clerks.

"It's no secret that the state and many cities are having financial problems these days," said Belleville City Clerk Agnes Frisch. "The presidential preference primary is an additional cost that I believe the cities can ill afford."

Although the Belleville City Council has not yet joined the ranks of those urging that state to dump the primary, cities such as Westland, Wayne and Inkster have jumped on the bandwagon. Typical of the resolution before many local lawmakers these days is the one approved by the Inkster City Council.

In the Inkster resolution, the lawmakers point out that "the Presidential Preferential Primary will cost the state between $5 to $8 million and ... that the 1980 (primary) reflected a 7 percent turnout in the city of Inkster".

Therefore the council directed City Clerk Delphine Oden "to immediately cease all expenditures of time, money and in-kind services towards the holding of a Presidential Preferential Primary until such time as the state has escrowed to Inkster a $1,000 per precinct deposit towards the cost of the election."

Adding to concerns of local lawmakers is that the primary results are not binding on the state delegates.

"The primary is non-binding," Choate said. "The delegates go to the state convention and choose the candidate of their choice anyway. Why are we wasting all of this money and time on something that is so confusing and frustrating?"

Many local lawmakers believe that the state legislature should rescind Public Act 275, and they expect more to jump on the bandwagon to dump the primary before the year is out.

Acapulco continues to be high on the popularity list of Mexican resorts but is quite different from most. Rapid growth has resulted in many new hotels, shops, restaurants, and discos... there's something to suit virtually every taste.

Many of the larger hotels are located in the heart of town, just a short walk from major tourist facilities. This makes it easy to sample local restaurants, enjoy cultural events and visit the boutiques. For some, however, this area is too busy for their taste and one of the deluxe, cutting edge resorts is more appealing.

Inasmuch as taxi fares are very reasonable and guests at one of the outlying hotels probably won't go downtown more than once or twice, location shouldn't be a problem. Among the best known and most luxurious resorts in this category are Las Brisas, high in the hills, with private or semi-private pools, the Princess Hotel and its sister hotel, the Pierre Marquez. The last two have many restaurants between them and a free shuttle, so a variety of places to dine is not a problem.

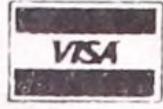

Acapulco can be as quiet or as swinging as you wish with something to suit everyone. Even hotel rates cover a wide spectrum with accommodations in almost every price range; this is a destination which appeals to couples, singles and families because of the diversity. It's an easy place to meet people but you won't have any trouble finding a "table for two" if that's your preference. Just give us a call!

First prize: Agency has trip for two

When the palm of your hand starts to itch, it's time to go to Las Vegas.

The first place prize for the Associated Newspaper Contest is a trip for two to Las Vegas which includes 4 nights and 3 days, airfare and hotel accommodations, according to Bob Neugebauer, owner of Bob Neugebauer Travel who is handling arrangements.

"The package includes lodging at the Maxim Hotel/Casino, baggage handling, ground transfers and breakfast daily," Neugebauer said. "It also includes a hospitality room that is stocked with refreshments."

Although Las Vegas is the place to go for gambling and entertainment, Neugebauer said it's one of the most inexpensive vacations to take.

"If a person can control their gambling, it is the least expensive trip you can take," Neugebauer said. "We send about 7,000 people to Las Vegas each year."

Neugebauer said people visit Las Vegas throughout the year. Although there isn't one specific time of the year which is better to travel to Las Vegas, Neugebauer said summertime is very hot.

"The entertainment is good all year round as well as the weather," Neugebauer said. "The only time it might be uncomfortable to travel there is summertime because it does get very warm."

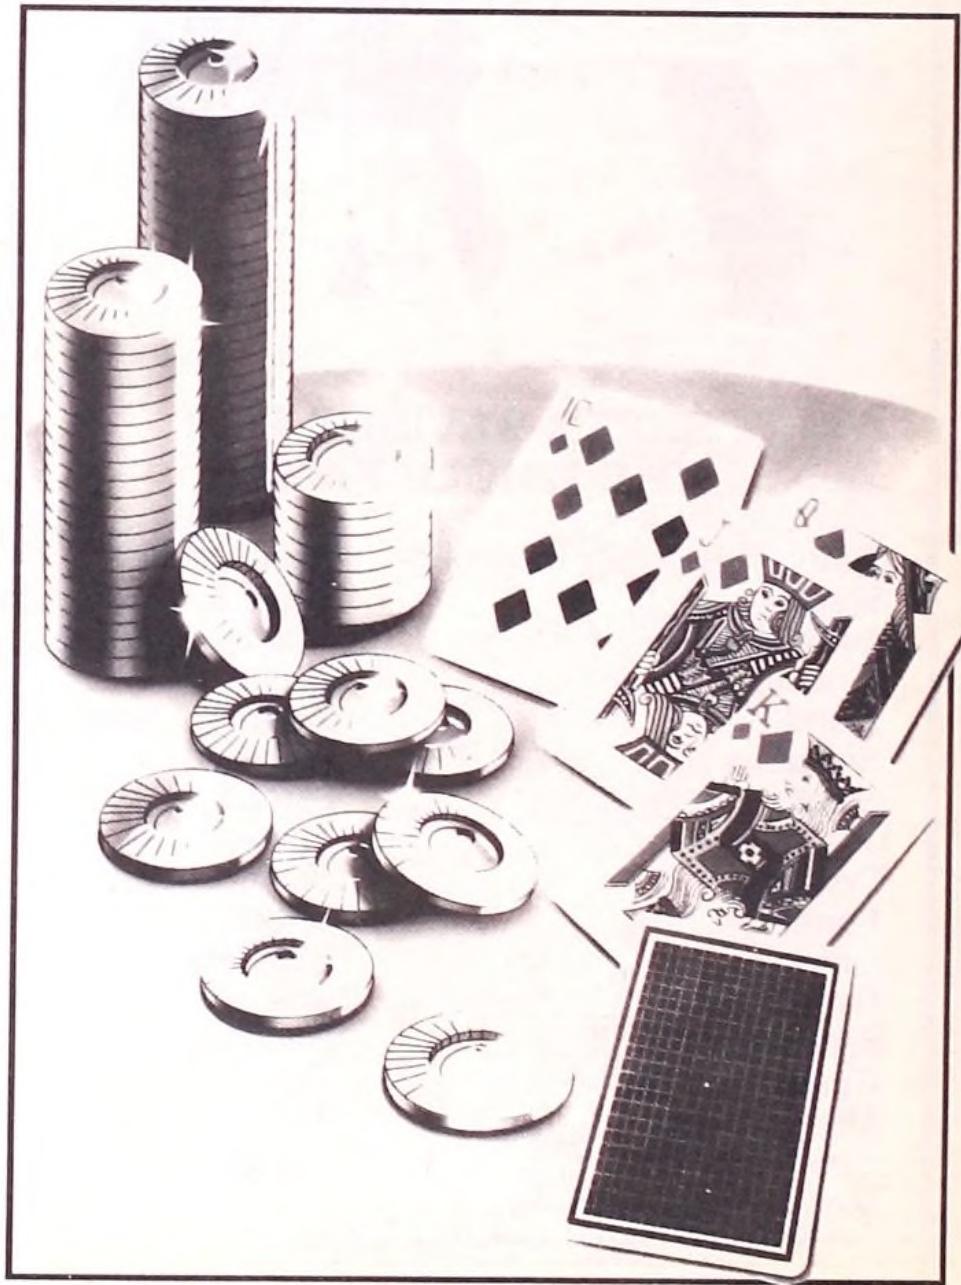

Neugebauer said city officials in Las Vegas are trying to turn the image of the city around from having entertainment which is geared strictly to adults to offering activities for children.

"The city is trying to make an image of one that is more family oriented," Neugebauer said. "For example, they now have the Wet and Wild theme park, and MGM is putting in a Disney World type park."

Neugebauer Travel was given the thumbs up last year for implementing numerous Key Tour programs. Although Bob Neugebauer Travel is a full-service travel agency, Neugebauer said between 85 to 95 percent of his business is generated from handling trips to Las Vegas.

Anyone interested in taking a trip to Las Vegas can call Neugebauer at 77-VEGAS.

Springbrook Hills offers rest and relaxation

The second-place prize for the Associated Newspaper Summer Getaway Contest provides enough entertainment and relaxation for the entire family or group.

Situated near beautiful Walloon Lake, Springbrook Hills resort officials are offering the winner two nights for a family or group in a fully-equipped vacation home, according to Joe Breidenstein, project manager for Springbrook Hills.

"We are a year-round vacation home resort near Petoskey, Boyne City and Boyne Mountain ski resort," Breidenstein said. "The winner will have use of a fully-equipped kitchen, fireplace, deck and grill in the resort home which is surrounded by state forest land."

Springbrook Hills is in an area ideal for small game and deer hunting, according to Breidenstein. For those avid fishermen and women, there are several lakes nearby such as Walloon, Crooked Lakes, Lake Charlevoix and Little Traverse Bay where trout, bass, panfish and walleye are plentiful.

"We also have the Bear, Maple, Jordan or Boyne rivers for stream fishing," Breidenstein said.

In the wintertime, Springbrook Hills is ideal for snowmobiling, ski-
